FIRST PHOTOS OF CARUSO'S FUNERAL TO REACH AMERICA

This photograph shows the body of Enrico Caruso, the world's greatest tenor, lying in state in the Hotel Vesuvio at Naples, where he died. Thousands, rich and poor, humble and great, came for a last view of their idol. Honor guards of police and the military stood in attendance as the people filed by to pay a final tribute to the great singer.

This picture was taken during the funeral services for Caruso in the Church of San Francesco Di Paola at Naples Aug. 4. Caruso was the first untitled person for whom funeral services had ever been held in the royal basilica of the church. Special permission was given by King Victor Emmanuel. Expenses of the funeral were paid by the municipality of Naples as a last tribute to a noted son. The catafalque on which the coffin rested was covered with black and gold and was surrounded by many candles. There were hundreds of wreaths sent by friends in all parts of the world.

Police and soldiers lined the way and thousands stood with heads bared as Caruso's funeral procession moved by. Arrow points to the hearse passing the Royal Palace, esco Di Paola during Caruso's funeral.

FOOD RELIEF FOR STARVING RUSSIA

Pact Signed; U. S. To Have Full Control

RIGA, LETVIA, August 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The agreement between the United States and Russia providing for American relief for the famine stricken districts of Russia, was signed at 11:30 o'clock this morning by Walter Lyman Brown, European representative of the American Relief Administration, and Maxim Litvinov, representative of the Russian famine committee.

Hope that the signing of the agreement would lead to further relations between Russia and America was expressed in speeches made by M. Litvinov, and M. Melnikov, the Letvian premier.

Mr. Brown confined his remarks to formal words of thanks and the expression of the hope that the agreement would result in the saving of lives.

Russia is by the terms of the contract, made the beneficiary of a far-reaching program which includes not only providing food for the people of the famine stricken Volga region, but the combating of epidemics.

The task of preventing outbreak of contagious disease among the fugitive thousands who have fled from their homes is considered great. Cholera has appeared in various districts and there is in many places danger of epidemics such as have in the past swept away myriad victims and reached distant parts of the continent.

It is understood orders have already gone to Hamburg, Danzig and New York directing that relief ships be loaded with food and medicines for Russia. Actual work in Russia may possibly commence in a little more than a week.

Political and commercial activities will be outside the realm of the work of the relief program. Any violation of this clause of the agreement may be cause for expulsion from Russia upon proofs being submitted to the directors of the

MORE JOBS OPEN IN STEEL INDUSTRY; STEADY ADVANCE IS PREDICTED

PITTSBURGH, PA., August 20.—Many unemployed workers will soon begin getting their jobs back in the steel industry.

Within 45 days, American steel mills will be employing twice as many men as in early August.

That's how Pittsburgh steel jobbers interpret the predictions of J. A.

Campbell, president of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Campbell, who has a reputation for being conservative in his statements, thinks that the steel industry will be operating at 40 per cent capacity by September or October.

That a low rate. But steel ingot production in July was only 20 per cent of capacity. A jump to 40 per cent would mean a doubling of work or the number of workers.

Better Times
The steel industry hit the bottom of depression late in July.

Since then, it has been moving upward—extremely slowly, but surely.

TENSION IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, August 20.—Leaders of the Irish Republican parliament were expected to confer with Eamon De Valera today at Black Rock, where he is spending the week-end at the home of Professor John McNeill, speaker.

There has been a growing tension here during the last couple of days and Dublin castle authorities have given expression of their fear that fighting might possibly be precipitated by extremists on either side. Only incidents of a minor nature have occurred, however, and it is hoped that a violation of the truce established last month may be averted.

LONDON, August 20.—Dispatches from Dublin to London newspapers appear to reflect pessimism over the Irish situation in view of latest developments.

from the influence of theorists and doctrinaires acting upon the spirit of militarism.

In discussing the prospect of negotiations fail, Mr. Nevinsion declares:

"If the truce be broken war in its terrible form will sweep through Ireland. Civil war will be added to national war and all who refuse to support the Republican army will be driven from the country or shot."

He admits, however, that hope still exists.

"If the Irish Republican leaders," his dispatch continues, "frame the reply to Great Britain's terms and submit it to the Dail Eireann for approval, rather than discussion, it almost certainly will be accepted with minor alterations. The members of the Dail Eireann are, for the most part, accustomed to discipline and were elected or appointed for field service. The danger of further negotiations and a subsequent peace comes

America Will Not Be Party To The Anglo-Japanese Alliance

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1921 by the Times Publishing Co.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—America will not be a party to the present Anglo-Japanese alliance. The attitude of the United States toward offensive and defensive alliances is not to be altered.

Co-operation between the United States and the other powers so far as the Far East is concerned should not be difficult. It is sought by America and this country will enter into an arrangement for the preservation of peace in the Far East, the principles of which are in accord with American tradition. The foregoing statements are based upon information obtained today in official quarters in reply to the speech of Prime Minister Lloyd George in the House of Commons, suggesting that "if the alliance between Great Britain and Japan could emerge into a greater understanding with Japan and the United States on all problems of the Pacific that would be a great event which would be a guarantee for the peace of the world."

No Further Wage Cuts Now

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 20.—James E. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, which is regarded as the leading independent steel company of the Youngstown district, said that there will be no further wage cuts in the independent mills here, at least for the present. The wage decrease announced yesterday by the United States Steel Corporation brings corporation and local independent wage scales to the same level, based on 30 cents an hour for common labor.

Snake Bitten--Wanted Some Whiskey, They Gave Him Serum

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—James McArdle, a keeper in the Bronx zoo, was reported recovering today from the effects of a bite by a copperhead snake.

McArdle asked for a drink of whiskey which he declared was the best remedy for snake bite, but the doctors at a hospital where he was taken told him there was no whiskey in the institution. They gave him a serum instead.

The keeper was bitten on the hand when he entered one of the reptile cages to clean it. His life probably was saved by Dr. Raymond L. Dimars, curator, who wrapped his wrist with a rubber band, lanced the hand and sucked out the poison.

MEN TO MARCH ON MINGO

CHARLESTON, W. VA., August 20.—A body of men said to number between 300 and 400 assembled today at Marmet, east of here, for the purpose of marching into Mingo county, where an industrial controversy has prevailed for more than a year, and which is now under martial law, according to reports reaching Charleston this afternoon.

State authorities here were notified of the gathering and of the intended movement on Mingo county, but no information was given out as to what steps would be taken, if any, to prevent the men from marching. Colonel Jackson, commander of the state police, declined to discuss the matter.

Charles F. Keeney, president of District Number 11, United Mine Workers, was not in his office, although it was said he was in the city.

Clarke reported his kidnapping and escape today in personal telegrams to friends here. The bandits were holding him for $7,500 ransom.

Billy Butt-In THE TIMES WEATHER MAN

Chinese Army Is Scourge; 2,000,000 Armed Men Pillage, Murder

SHANGHAI, Aug. 20.—If the Great Powers decide at the Washington conference on some form of benevolent intervention in China to save themselves another war, the first problem they will have to tackle is the hordes of the Chinese army.

China's army is slowly contributing to her destruction. For years she has been trying to demobilize and can't. Instead, the army is on the increase, if anything, and Peking is helpless.

China has no money with which to pay her troops, so they mutiny and sack the country in lieu of wages.

They refuse to be mustered out of service because soldiering is easy, working for a living uncertain and a uniform adds class to robber bands with which some of them travel.

Unarmed Coxies

Now with their overlord, the government general, allow them to be mustered out if he can possibly help it.

Being a little king in his own right, doing precisely what he pleases, regardless of what Peking has to say about it, he realizes he is no more powerful than his army.

It not infrequently happens that somebody disputes his title, so the Tschun keeps his command as strong as he possibly can to defend it.

Soldiers in China are seldom more than the uniformed coolies of the particular war lord who pays them, and have little or no conception of what it means to serve flag or country.

Their but to do the bidding of the Tschun, their direct master, collect his "squeeze" and hold his on his pedestal.

In return for this, the Tschun allows his troops pretty free rein, discipline, in the Occidental sense being almost unknown; feels and clothes them as best he can and, from time to time, gives them a little cash to do with as they like.

Letters From Our Readers

Editor of Times—We saw a wedding party in a limousine yesterday. Attached to the machine was a placard on which had been inscribed a joke crude in conception and offensive to good taste.

The matter scarcely would be worth mention here were not the practice of pharisaic wedding cars in this way becoming too common in this city.

The marital state is not yet such a joke that it should be a subject of low comedy on the streets. Besides, such of the placards as we have seen are an affront to public decency.

There should be an end to the practice.

Tent Meetings Close Sunday

Last night saw a great time at the meeting corner Third and Court street because the Holy Spirit was present. The tent was well filled. The song service was good especially the beautiful solo by Mrs. Gump. Rev. Cochran preaching from Acts 26 showed the manner and way of salvation in the defense of St. Paul before King Agrippa. No one can read this chapter without being convinced of the need of genuine repentance and entire sanctification. If people were as honest and earnest as St. Paul would soon find Christ as he did. The main reason why most persons fail to find God is because they are not honest with God. Again when one truly does find Christ, he like Paul will be delivered from any bondage or fear of people and will begin to preach repentance to all possible. Holiness will also be sought and obtained and preached everywhere as Paul did. The reason why professors of Salvation are idle and useless is because they have nothing to tell about. Get a good case of salvation like Paul did and God will call you to be a witness for Him to all people.

Then also like Paul you will run against persecution for their sake. This requires a real experience, first to bring on persecution and second to withstand such opposition.

Tonight preaching at 8 o'clock Sunday: Love Feast at 10 o'clock. Preaching at 11 o'clock, 3 o'clock and 8 o'clock. Rev. Chilton the district superintendent over the Nazarene will be in the services tonight and over Sunday and unless otherwise arranged will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Rev. Chilton is a powerful noted preacher and the public especially those interested in vital religion is invited to hear him Sunday morning.

These meetings have proved a great benefit to many earnest people of Portsmouth and the Nazarene church here will now go forward to greater activities and victories. Both the local church and the District church wish to here publicly thank The Portsmouth Daily Times for their kindness in printing reports of these meetings. They leave us under obligation hard to repay.

Gasoline Soaked Clothes Catches Fire; McGlothlin Badly Burned; Will Recover

This afternoon Gibson McGlothlin, 18, son of Mrs. Jennie McGlothlin, 1906 Waller street, who was burned seriously about the body yesterday when his clothes caught fire from a gasoline torch, was reported as resting easily at a local hospital, where he was removed a short time after the accident.

The young man put on some clothes and went to work in the garage in the rear of his home about one o'clock Friday afternoon. He had worn the clothes while working about the machine a number of times and they had become soaked with gasoline and oil. He was using a gasoline torch to remove the paint from a machine, when in some unaccountable manner it swung in his hands so that the flames caught his clothing. The oil and gasoline soaked clothing burned rapidly, the young man rushing into the backyard from the garage.

Miss Emma Hubert, who lives a few doors from the McGlothlin home, had her attention attracted to the McGlothlin yard by the young man's cries, and she yelled to him not to run and urged him to lay down and roll. He obeyed, smothering the flames out in this way, but not before most of his clothing had been burned off.

McGlothlin was badly burned about the abdomen and back, both hands, right forearm and right leg. So severe were the burns on his abdomen that the skin peeled off with part of his clothing. Miss Hubert hurried to the home and rendered first aid, applying freely a mixture of lime water and linseed oil. Dr. Oscar Micklethwait was called and he found the burns so severe that hospital attention was necessary. The young man was then removed to Mercy Hospital, where he spent a very restless night, the burns being very painful. This morning, although the pains had lessened, only a little, he managed to sleep some, and this afternoon was resting a little better.

Though the burns are of a serious nature, they are not thought deep enough to be fatal.

Dealers Must Pay Cigarette Tax

County officials have received frequent complaints, it was stated Saturday, from dealers who have paid the cigarette license for the traffic in cigarettes and tobacco, that many local merchants who have not paid the assessment, are passing out or giving away, cigarette papers with smoking tobacco.

Officials point out that this practice is in clear violation of the laws dealing with the sale of cigarettes, and a warning has been sounded that unless the practice is discontinued, prosecutions will be forced against all offenders and in these instances the county auditor will be obliged to place the person on the cigarette duplicate for the usual tax in addition to a penalty of three hundred percent.

Sally Released From Jail, Held On Theft Charge, Given Permission To Leave City

Joseph Sally, aged Earlstown man, who was sent to jail a month ago from Municipal court on his conviction of a charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor, was released from custody Saturday morning only to be re-arrested as he stepped from the prison by N. & W. detectives on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of journal trusses valued at $48 from the railroad company.

On being taken before Judge Sprague the aged man admitted possession of the stolen property, but claimed he had bought it from some young men. Sally made a strong plea for his liberty, claiming that he expected to leave soon for Iowa to make his home with a son, and on condition that he carry out his promise to leave town the case was passed by consent of all concerned.

Have You Airplane Nose?

PILOT CLARENCE E. LANGE, WEARING THE NOSE MASK HE INVENTED.

Airmen pilots are wearing nose masks to guard against a new ailment—"aviator's nose."

"Aviator's nose" is the result of exposure to the sun and strong wind behind the propeller. After a day's flying, pilots have come down with noses swollen, painfully sunburned and balloons.

Cold cream, smeared on the nose before each trip, does little to alleviate the stinging, to heal the beef-steak appearance or stop the peeling of the skin. Up above the clouds, the sun and wind work through the cold cream, the nose chaps and fissure-like wounds are formed.

To relieve this, Pilot Clarence E. Lange, of Omaha, Neb., has invented the nose mask, it is a strip of soft leather fitted over the nose and held on by a rubber band around the helmet.

Before this idea struck him, Lange used to paste five tape over the bridge of his nose.

Beef Prices Takes Drop

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Whole sale prices of dressed beef in eastern markets this week have been down to within two cents of pre-war prices of 1918, the price decline during the year having been nearly 45 per cent, according to figures published today by the American Meat Packers' Institute.

Average wholesale prices approximated fourteen cents a pound during the week, against twenty cents in the same week of last year, and 15 1/2 cents in 1918, it was stated. Ordinary grade beef dropped 27 per cent during the last two weeks in the New York markets and the next grade, medium, 19 per cent, only fancy beef prices holding "fairly firm" because of the limited quantities available, it was stated.

These figures should furnish consumers with opportunity for "savings in beef," the statement said, "particularly the consumer who does not insist on fancy beef and the butcher cuts therefrom."

A large attendance of United Commercial Travelers and their families and friends marked the annual outing of the organization held at Coney Island Saturday afternoon. Several U. C. Shaw Trial Is Being Held; Many Witnesses Being Heard

John Shaw, and his son Harry Shaw, and the latter's wife, Elizabeth Shaw, all of Turkey Creek, who were arrested Thursday for alleged manufacturing liquor were brought to trial Saturday before Judge Owen Veazy at a hearing held at the county jail office.

More than a score of witnesses from the Turkey Creek vicinity were in court to testify for and against the defendants and the hearing consumed a greater portion of the day, being still in progress at a late hour this afternoon.

The evidence adduced against the defendant was purely circumstantial and came in connection with the finding of some mash and other indications that a still had been operated on the Shaw farm at Turkey Creek. The defendants, who were defended by Attorney Walter L. Dickey, strenuously denied the charges and disclaimed all knowledge of the manufacture of liquor as claimed.

One Killed, Nine Hurt In Auto Mishap

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Frank Larkins, 38, of Pittsburgh, was killed and nine other persons were injured in a collision between two automobiles, at a road intersection, two miles east of Sylvania, late last night.

Mrs. Larkins with her husband was returning from Jackson, Michigan, when the machine in which they were riding crashed into the rear end of a machine driven by E. W. File, of Toledo. Both machines were demolished.

The Larkins machine overturned plunging them beneath. Mrs. Larkins sustained a broken neck and fractured skull, and Larkins was badly bruised about the face and body.

Eight people were in the File machine, which was hurled twenty feet. All were injured and with Larkins were removed to a Toledo hospital.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Arthur E. McNamara Visits Mother

CINCINNATI, O., August 20.—Coincident to the announced selection of William J. Burns, to be the head of the bureau of investigation of the United States department of justice, John J. McNamara, "master mind" in one of the greatest cases ever handled by Burns, arrived in Cincinnati late yesterday. He came primarily to see his mother, who still lives here.

This is McNamara's first visit to his home city in more than ten years, he having been confined during that period at San Quentin prison in California. He was sentenced at Los Angeles, December 5, 1911, to 15 years' confinement on a plea of guilty of having dynamited the Los Angeles city works at Los Angeles. At the same time his brother, James P. McNamara, on a plea of guilty, was sentenced to life imprisonment on a charge of murder, growing out of the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times building when 21 persons were killed.

John J. McNamara was released several weeks ago, having earned good time. He declined to say what his plans are for the future.

Removed Home

Mrs. Belle Nagel, of Lyra, who was recently operated upon in Schirmer hospital, has been taken in her home, as her condition is much improved.

"I'm No Reformer!"

MRS. WINIFRED MASON BUCK

Seeks Seat In Congress

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—"Live and let live."

This is the motto of Mrs. Winifred Mason Buck, who is seeking the seat in Congress made vacant by the death of her father, Congressman William E. Mason.

She is conducting her campaign from a tiny office on the Loop; her ammunition is a $200 campaign fund, a brief platform and a smile.

The platform: "Legislation cannot cure evils; education can."

Mrs. Buck has been married 17 years and still has her husband; also four children; she's 39—and proud of these statistics. Says she:

"I've raised my children to rely upon themselves. Now they don't need me as they once did. But I've got to be busy. So I've determined upon a career—a congressional career."

"I'm making a eloquent fight for the post. I shall not contribute as much as a million to any political machine. That's why I'm running independently."

"But I'm no reformer—not 11. The women can smoke if they want to; they can bob their hair if they want to; and they may wear skirts and bathing suits to please their fancy."

"Extremists get over it when they get common sense, you know. Like puppy love, though, extremism thrives on opposition."

"Common sense cures extremism. Common sense comes from education. Therefore, what the country needs is more education."

"I'm going to be a silent congresswoman with a big 'S', except when I have something to say that's really worth saying. Then the world will listen."

CURE HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am eighty-three years old and I do not feel like a man. I have been suffering from rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 30 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for medical cures and I have read about 'cure' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain. My hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk without pain or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change. 'You must just say all with comfort and ease. It took Mr. Ashland fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from 'The Inner Mysteries' now being distributed free to an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of this paper wishes to know the true cause of their rheumatism, or other ailments, they should read 'The Inner Mysteries' overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a card or letter to H. JUDGE J. S. THOMAS CONDEMNS "MIDNIGHT ARRESTS, HIGH BAIL" IN LIQUOR CASES

Judge J. S. Thomas in Common Pleas court Saturday morning dismissed the applications of Floyd Bland and Thomas Redman, negroes, for their release from jail on writs of habeas corpus, because of lack of jurisdiction, but the court in doing so took occasion to fire a broadside and in unmeasured terms condemned certain practices in connection with the enforcement of the liquor laws, such as midnight arrests and unreasonable bail. He also condemned the situation existing at the county jail and declared that confinement there under the present condition was an infringement of a man's constitutional right, in that it was cruel and unusual punishment and he recommended that officials and others in charge of the enforcement of the liquor laws use a little temperance in the manner of their enforcement. In conclusion Judge Thomas added, "this court was and would be at all times open for the writ of habeas corpus whenever the constitutional rights of citizens are infringed upon."

By agreement of counsel Bland and Redman were released from custody on their own recognizance pending trial before Judge McManes on the liquor charges while the application of their enforcement. In conclusion Judge Thomas added, "this court was and would be at all times open for the writ of habeas corpus whenever the constitutional rights of citizens are infringed upon."

"Hell Fire And Brimstone"

Editor Portsmouth Times:

In Thursday's issue you give the report from the evangelistic meeting at Court and Third streets on the "Judgment." These men are no doubt trying to do good, and it is to be hoped that some good will result from their meetings. But surely they also are unintentionally doing much harm by their ideas of God, and His moral government. They may be able to frighten some ignorant people into leading better lives for a while, by such sayings as Mr. Cochran used in his Wednesday night sermon. But they also drive many thinking people into infidelity by their awful pictures of God. Their descriptions of the Judgment are the ideas of the church when it put people to death for not accepting the beliefs or teachings of that day. But the world no longer accepts their cruel views of God.

And because the church now believes that God does not burn people forever, they no longer feel that they ought to put them to death for opinion's sake. Once that was quite the fashion; but it is so no more. They thought then they were no worse than God was when they did this. No, not nearly so bad; for they merely burned people to death in an hour or two, while they thought God burned them alive forever. This seems to be evangelist Cochran's notion still. He says that "if you have rejected Christ, your judgment is to everlasting hell fire and brimstone." There are some twelve or fifteen millions of Jews in the world, who do not believe that Jesus Christ was the Messiah. Many of these Jews are just as good men as these evangelists are. They are good to the poor, and they help to make the world better. My Bible says we will be judged by our deeds, not creeds. Had these evangelists been born and educated as these Jews were, they, too, would reject Jesus Christ.

Then there are many hundreds of good Mohammedans, and Hindus—good in their way, according to their light. They know no better than to reject Christ. Also there are millions of people in Christian lands, who from careless-ness or ignorance, or the habit of putting it off, never formally accept Christ; in fact, they reject Him according to the teachings of these men.

Is it possible that the God of love as Jesus represented Him to be, could burn all of these hundreds of millions forever? For what purpose? Not to make them better. They teach that no one can repent after death. Then why would God keep them alive, when He knows they never will be better? Does He do it from revenge? Or could not He destroy them and end their misery? Does He honor Him to keep the majority of the human race in a hell of fire and brimstone forever?

Such notions of God, preached in a land of public schools, lead people to say that if God is like that they want nothing to do with Him. People who believe that God can be that bad may be afraid of Him, but they cannot say truthfully that they love Him. They might serve such a monster from fear, as slaves, but not as adopted sons of a heavenly Father. It is entirely reasonable to believe that sin will be punished. It is punished even in this world. But it is done to make people better. If they never become better here, they do at least die. God does not keep them suffering here eternally. Death is a mercy to them and it puts them out of the way. They can then do no more harm. Why, then, would God keep them alive forever in the next world? Does His mercy all end with the last breath on earth? Does He enjoy seeing poor rebellious wretches in everlasting torture? Jesus pardoned the penitent thief on the Cross. Suppose that the thief had repented the next day after death, would Jesus refuse him then because he had not repented after being a thousand or a million years in hell, would Jesus refuse to have mercy on him after so long suffering?

I am sure these evangelists mean well. But if they would only believe that God is as good as they are, they would never teach such horrible doctrines.

Union Services At First Church

Union services at First Presbyterian and Bigelow M. E. congregations will continue tomorrow at First Church.

In the morning Rev. D. C. Bord will speak on the subject: "A Matter of Law." Mrs. O. J. Delitzler will sing a soprano solo, "Behold, God Is Alike," by Wooler, and the quartet will render "O Mother Dear, Jerusalem," by West.

The weather conditions this afternoon seem to indicate that Vespers to-morrow evening at seven-thirty will be conducted on Bigelow Lawn. There will be the usual song service, and the sermon subject will be "In the Cool of the Day."

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend these services.

Thief Prepares For Winter; Steals Flour

A thief who evidently is convinced that a lean winter is staring him in the face broke into the C. & O. freight depot in South freight house door was broken. Agent N. A. Sanders discovered the robbery when he opened the freight house this morning.

BIGELOW RALLY TOMORROW; URGE A FULL ATTENDANCE

Guaranteeing a most successful rally day at the Sunday school services tomorrow morning at Bigelow church, one of the most enthusiastic meetings in years was held at Bigelow last evening. At the meeting final plans were made for placing before the combined Sunday school and church membership Sunday morning the plans for the future of Bigelow as a community church. Judging from last evening the rally tomorrow will mark an epoch in the history of the church.

A concerted effort is being made to have every man, woman and child who ever attended Bigelow church or Sunday school, and who now resides in this community, present tomorrow morning, when the plans for the future of Bigelow will be briefly outlined. There will be several short talks by members of the congregation, and a fine musical program has been prepared under the leadership of Mrs. S. E. Timmons.

Those familiar with the recreation and other activities under consideration for the ensuing year are confident that Bigelow will be put on the map not only in this city as a community church, but that a place will be set for other cities to follow. But it will be possible to realize the full benefits of these plans only through the co-operation of all connected with the church. Realizing this, the men and women who have been taking an active part in arranging the details feel justified in urging strenuously upon all Bigelow attendants the importance of being present tomorrow morning.

The Sunday school services will start at nine o'clock, and the outline of the plans for the future will be made at the close of the regular exercises. If you can not be there at nine o'clock, come later but be sure and be there. Several of the Sunday school classes are already claiming a full 100 percent attendance. Don't disappoint them.

EXCELSIOR FOREMEN HOLD ANNUAL OUTING

Annual outings held by the Superintendent and Foremen's Association of the Excelsior shoe factory have always been very successful and big affairs, but all those of the past did not compare with the outing and fine time enjoyed yesterday by the Association members and special guests including the Excelsior Baseball team of the Industrial League. The outing for the second time was held at the Wilson farm at Jasper where a splendid chicken dinner with all the trimmings was greatly enjoyed.

Not only did the outing party enjoy the dinner, but also the baseball game that occupied the early part of the afternoon. The baseball team left the factory early in order to get to Jasper in time to start the contest at 3:30 o'clock.

The contest was with Dewey's Blueskins and let it be stated right here the Excelsior team did not run into anything as easy as they expected. A big crowd greeted the players, fully 500 people being on the side lines to cheer, mostly for Jasper of course. The Industrial League players say that half of Pike county must have been there for all the business places of Jasper closed up for the afternoon on account of the game.

On account of the supper being served in the open it was necessary to call the game at the end of the sixth, with the local factory nine in the lead by three runs. This did not entirely satisfy the Blueskins and they are coming to Portsmouth to play the Excelsiors soon. Brooks Gowdy who started to umpire only lasted a couple of innings and he had to be jerked on account of loud complaints from the Jasper nine.

The score was as follows, and it shows some mighty good pitching on the part of both twirlers, Barber facing twice and Donley thrice:

First Base on Balls: Scott 2, Hit by Pitcher: Doherty, Switzer. Struck Out: Smith 4, Scott 8.

About six o'clock the chicken dinner was served at the long tables prepared in the large yard of the Wilson home. There was plenty of chicken for all and needless to say it was enjoyed, every bite. When it comes to eating all honors go to Will Gordon, who did not seem the least backward in accepting the honors. He was presented with a fine bouquet by one of the ladies who waited at his table and who was a good judge of his eating ability. Mr. Gordon accepted the bouquet with many thanks adding that he only got away with more than a whole chicken and three dishes of ice cream besides other "little" bites.

After the supper General Manager John E. Williams of the shoe factory spoke words of praise for the Excelsior baseball nine. He said that they deserved much praise as they worked all day and then went out to the ball field and played good ball for the honor of the factory.

Sixty-four persons enjoyed the outing which was voted the best ever held. Twenty machines carried the party to Jasper, the trip being made without any trouble. The baseball team was the special guest of the Association. Other visitors present included Salesman T. G. Francis and wife of Columbus, and a buyer, J. S. Yontz and wife, of Columbus.

Those present were: David S. Williams, John Newman, E. H. Hammer, W. H. Ware, J. A. Asholtz, C. N. McGuffee, Jim Monahan, E. C. Williams, Wm. Beach, Wm. Keller, N. M. Flowers, Ed. QUINCE HONEY IS GOOD

BY SISTER MARY
Quinces are an old-fashioned fruit which add variety to winter salads and desserts. They have a tang that combines well with other fruits. Can them in thin strips for salads and make preserves to use with hot biscuits on cold winter mornings.

A few quinces go a long way, so use about one cup of water. Boil one quart at a time and allow 1 cup of sugar to each quart of fruit. Cook the fruit until tender, but not mushy. It will take longer to cook quinces than peaches or pears.

Chopped Quince
Pare, core and chop quinces. Measure. To three cups of fruit (chopped) add one cup of water. Cook until tender. Add four cups of sugar and cook for fifteen minutes after the mixture begins to boil. Pour into pint jars and seal while boiling hot.

Quince Honey
Six large quinces, 6 pounds of sugar, 3 pints water.

Pare sugar and water in preserving kettle and boil ten minutes. Add quinces which have been pared and grated and cook thirty minutes longer. Pour into jelly glasses and cover with paraffine when cool.

Quince Preserves
Pare quarter and core quinces. Cut in small dice. Measure and take measure for measure of sugar. Put fruit in preserving kettle and add enough boiling water to cover. Simmer till tender. Add sugar to the water in which the fruit was cooked. Let come to the boiling point and skim. Add quinces and cook for fifteen minutes. Pour into jelly glasses and cover with paraffine when cool.

Quinces and sweet apples may be combined in equal proportions in any of the preceding recipes. Less sugar should be used if apples are added. The combination is more delicately flavored when par apples are used. (Copyright by Newspaper Enterprise)

"Parthian Shot"

Parthia was a celebrated country of ancient Asia. It was a wild and mountainous country of great extent, having 25 large cities, of which the chief and capital of the country was Hecatompylion, so named from its hundred gates. The Parthians were noted for their love of war and martial glory; they were the most celebrated horsemen in the world, and such excellent marksmen with the bow and arrow, that, though in full flight and shooting backward, they could hit any object; their storm of arrows, discharged when flying from the field at full speed, being fatal as those volleys poured on an advancing foe. Hence the phrase, a Parthian arrow or shot, a shaft or shot aimed at an adversary while flying or pretending to fly from him; a paching shot.

Borneo Natives Fond of Seeds.

The natives of Borneo are the great head lovers of the world. In many instances there are collections of beads which have been in one family for centuries, and which cannot be bought, they are so cherished by the owners. An examination of these collections often reveals some precious pieces, which have been cut by the native artisans in bead shape.

The Kindergarten which has been under the management

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Disappointed—I would advise that you keep your eyes open for a chance to get away from the conditions which are making your life so miserable. To work as housekeeper and have your baby with you would be far better than to stand such abuse as you have at present. Happiness does not seem possible with such a man as your husband.

Dear Miss Wise—What is the population of Lynchburg, Va., and also Portsmouth? What can you do to reduce your weight? BLUE EYES. Lynchburg, 29,956; Portsmouth, Va., 54,337; Portsmouth, O., 33,011.

To reduce, take regular exercises, reduce diet, omitting fat, starchy and sweet foods, eat plenty of citrus fruits and green vegetables.

Miss Wise—Please print a recipe for nut bread. G. L. C. Nut bread—3 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, one cup sugar, 1/2 cup nuts, 1 egg, 1 cup milk. Mix dry ingredients, add milk, and egg pour into greased pan, let rise one-half hour. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes.

A War Sufferer—Get advice from the Red Cross or from the physician who is taking care of your husband. I do not blame him for wanting to live at home with his little family, but at the same time tuberculosis is a very serious disease and he should not selfishly expose you and the children. When he is pronounced cured it would be all right for him to live at home. I would advise, however, that you move to a favorable climate as soon as possible.

Students—Write to the college for information.

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Twenty imported hats for seventeen hundred dollars!

That's the auction price at which these chapeaux were knocked down at the recent Retail Milliners' fall show.

Two of the hats which caused the fashion experts to twist their necks after the models are those by Marie Louise and Jeanne Lanvin.

The Lanvin hat is showy and startling. The Marie Louise is picturesque and genteel. Both are artistic and both have Parisian chic.

The Lanvin model is a development of the oriental turban. While we can scarcely fancy an oriental potentate wearing the particular lines in this stunning hat, the smart upstanding aigrette in front adheres to the eastern idea.

This turban is broad and the draped, gray, metallized satin is brought over the sides in a Persian manner.

The broad-brimmed hat of graceful lines is of canary-yellow crepe veiled with metallic thread lace. A large cockade with two rows of skunk adorns the front while skunk edges the brim.

AIN'T IT A GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELING

BY BRIGGS

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

CHERRY WILL FIGHT

Cherry told Miss Laura everything that lay heaviest on her heart. The wise lady sat quietly listening, but saying nothing, until the girl had finished her story. Then she kissed her again, and holding her hands tightly in her own, assured her over and over again that it was all exaggerated. To be sure, Ned had known Azline a year or so earlier, but that was no heinous crime. Most young men had a sweetheart or two before they settled down. Cherry, herself, had undoubtedly had heaps of beaux in Chicago.

At this Cherry nodded her head hard. Of course she had, but fortunately for her and for Ned these past incidents had been left far behind when they left for Wellsburg. Ned's past had pursued him. She was that type of girl, Azline. She had been so spoiled all her life that she simply couldn't believe that in such a tremendous issue as this she would have to count herself defeated.

"It's unfortunate that she ever met Ned, dearie, that much I will say, for a girl like that will go to most any lengths to get what she sets her heart on. All scruples are abandoned. And even if it means the wrecking of a happy home, she will not be swayed from her purpose. What we have to do now is find out just what the very best thing to counteract Miss Eales' little game. You are clever enough, Cherry, to fix things so that you will be queen of your husband's heart as well as of your home. Remember always that Azline is unscrupulous."

At these words Cherry clinched her fist tightly. She, herself, knew too well the ruth of Miss Laura's every word. She had a dangerous rival, one who would stop at nothing. The question was how to settle things once and forever.

"Do you know, Miss Laura, that I was cold to Ned when he left this evening? We've been that way ever since the dance, you know, and he doesn't dream that I'm sitting here crying about him. No indeed. He has gone off fully convinced that his wife doesn't care much for him, I feel sure!"

"That's very bad, Cherry. Never do it again. It's wrong enough to let the sun set on anger between you, but to let the man you love so much go away on a long trip with anger and doubt in his heart is doubly wrong. I learned this to my sorrow, years and years ago. That's why I said I am afraid to tell you the truth," said Miss Laura earnestly.

"You see, I can't humble myself for Ned, now though," continued Cherry, disconsolately, as she wiped her eyes. "I have really been guilty of nothing, and it's all Ned's fault for jumping to conclusions as he did instead of asking me for the facts in the case about his seeing Arthur kissing me. He has placed me in a difficult position. Besides, how can he throw stones when he has been philandering and when he receives notes like this from a girl he once cured for? No, it is I, Miss Laura, who has right on my side."

Seek the Most Becoming Line For Your Hair

EXPERIMENT UNTIL YOU GET A BECOMING HAIR LINE—(POSED BY DIANA DEER).

BY MME. MOREAU

PARIS, Aug. 19.—"How shall I do my hair?"—yes, my dear, every woman is saying it with you, for this seems to be a season of no particular style of hair of a combination of many.

And perhaps that is the secret of the charm of the Parisienne. She is stealing a bit from last year's mode and adding to it her own original line! Which, of course, is the thing every woman should do at all times.

The bob is with us yet. Occasionally some middle-aged woman, with the figure of a youth and wearing the smart young togs of sport, is seen with her locks becomingly cropped. And opposed to this frank shortness we have in army who at first blush seem short, but actually their own hair is tucked under a clever little curled bob which they carried home from some enterprising hair dresser's.

There are faces to which the bobbed effect is vastly becoming. If yours is one of that type, then by all means wear that effect, but don't let it stick up in bunches over your ears. Positively, that isn't being done any more!

The tip of the ear is quite recklessly exposed now, though no woman except she of the distinctive foreign type with finely chiseled features and tiny shell pink ears can ever publicly exhibit the entire member.

Intriguing widow's peak are being made the most of. They have a certain charm of youth, especially when worn by the black haired maid or matron. Really black hair is required to bring out the contrast which the widow's peak gives. Quite often, for evening, back of the peak are found marvellous rolls and puffs over which no hat could possibly fit. Thus one finds an ever increasing vogue for hairless faces.

The unarced, rolled into one of those mysterious Eisle Ferguson French twists, is worn much with slight variation of line. This is good on the head which has a good hair line and at the back of which there is a pretty neck. The possessor of these should insist upon doing her hair up and away to show the good lines—no low figure eight for her.

It is but the work of half an hour's twisting and curving to find your own best lines and originate the style which suits you best. With plenty of pins and lots of patience, work before your mirror some time until you have effected the most becoming hair line possible. This done, the right kind of knot will take care of itself.

Famine In The Tartar Republic

LONDON, August 20.—Famine conditions in the Tartar republic are very grave, says the Moscow correspondent of the Daily Herald. Private stores of food have been exhausted and the rich and poor alike are suffering from hunger. A steamer has been sent along the Kama river to prevent panic and to forestall mass emigrations, the correspondent says, and it is reported that the effort to reassure the inhabitants and restore confidence in the government has been successful. Relief work is going on in the troubled area. Five thousand children have been sent from the Volga region to Stasia, a health resort on the shore of the Black Sea.

This heavy total, it was explained, represents virtually the peak of unemployment, with the decrease taking place since the figures were compiled.

TURN IN BUSINESS, EMPLOYMENT HAS COME

PHILADELPHIA, PA., August 20.—The turn in general business and employment has come and the situation is now to be faced with optimism, according to the belief expressed by officials of chambers of commerce along the eastern seaboard. Many "Jake Drunks," Jamaica Ginger Raid MIDDLETOWN, O., Aug. 20.—Two thousand bottles of Jamaica ginger were confiscated in three raids made by state enforcement officers and police last night. Producers of three groceries, where all of the ginger was found, were arrested.

An epidemic of what police term "jake drunks," caused the investigation that resulted in the raids. "Jake drunk" victims, police say, are those who become temporarily insane or unaccountable from drinking Jamaica ginger.

Hears From MacMillan

AUGUSTA, MAINE, August 20.—Governor Baxter yesterday received an undated letter from Captain Donald B. MacMillan, the Arctic explorer now on an expedition to Baffin Land, in which he said he had reached what might be called the last outpost of civilization. "I have taken on the last provisions and fresh water and am now awaiting weather to clear before proceeding northward to Hopedale, the first Eskimo settlement," he wrote. "It is two above freezing here today, with many icebergs in sight, but no drift ice to bother us on the coast according to wireless reports. The Bowdoin is proving to be a wonderful sea boat. Had her going the other day with ice all under and fore-rigging cutting every wave. Was a bit anxious about my main boom which was bending like rubber, but she came through all right."

Mob Quiet After Battle

KNOXVILLE, TENN., August 20.—Quiet prevailed in the vicinity of the Knox county jail today following the clash last night between a guard of deputies and state troops and a crowd demanding a negro held in connection with a criminal assault on a county school teacher, in which 20 persons were wounded, six of them seriously. A general exchange of shots occurred when members of the crowd, composed of more than 200 men and boys, crossed a "dead line" beyond which Sheriff Gate had given warning they should not pass. Although the deputies, who were joined by a dozen troops, who were firing, declared their shotguns above the heads of the crowd, the bullets wounding more than a score of persons who were viewing the threatened jail assault from the court house yard above. According to Sheriff Gate, the first shot was fired from the crowd, whereupon one of the deputies discharged his shot gun above the heads of the crowd. The shooting became general when members of the mob responded with several revolver shots. None of the jail guard was wounded.

Troops Guard Jail With Machine Guns

BARNSTABLE, MASS., August 20.—The night passed without incident at the county jail here, where early yesterday a mob threatened to seize and lynch three negroes charged with criminal assault upon a young white woman. National guard artillerymen armed with machine guns, remained at the jail during the night. Reports last night that negroes in nearby towns were forming rescue parties to free the prisoners, prompted Sheriff Irving L. Rosenthal to request state troops and one hundred men were sent from the camp of the second field artillery at West Barnstable. Outposts were established along the Cape road for a half mile in each direction from the jail, but they were later withdrawn and eighty of the men returned to camp. The prisoners, John Dies; Benjamin Gomez and Joseph Andrews, who are also charged with highway robbery, are kept in widely separated parts of the jail. The usual jail guard of two men has been increased to fifteen, armed with shot guns, and ten members of the state police patrol equipped with motorcycles, are camped nearby, subject to emergency call.

Britain In Line For The Arms Parley

LONDON, August 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Great Britain's formal acceptance of the official invitation of President Harding to participate in the conference on Far Eastern questions and disarmament in November next has been forwarded to the American government, it was announced today. The British note couched in cordial terms of approval of the objects for which the conference has been called, it was added.

Dry Sleuths Suspended

YONGSTOWN, O., Aug. 20.—D. M. Brown, chief of the federal prohibition enforcement bureau here, together with three of his agents have been suspended indefinitely due to charges growing out of a recent grand jury investigation here in which three city officials were indicted for bribery and misuse of office, according to a telegram received today from James E. Jones, assistant prohibition commissioner at Washington. The three other agents are Edward Weaver, Chris Reinstein and Garnet Howard. The grand jury recommended that the federal agents operating here be investigated.

All relief shipments will be transported free of charge to points selected by the Americans, who will have absolute control of distribution. It is the plan to restrict relief measures to those people who are in actual distress, and to prevent government emigration by a Russian government. With the exception of Americans detained in Russia at any time since 1917, for whom permission from the Soviet government must be obtained, free entry into Russia of any of the American personnel is to be allowed under the agreement signed today. The Soviet government will pay virtually all expenses, except the actual salaries and expenses of the American relief personnel.

Roads Covered With Bodies Of Spaniards

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The reverse suffered by the Spanish column in Morocco are attributed, mainly to the "recklessness of the generals in operating too far from their bases," says the Madrid correspondent of the London Times, who in a lengthy dispatch gives what is designated as the "first full account of the Spanish disaster in Morocco, and its causes." The extent of the disaster at Melilla, declares the correspondent, is so far reaching in its consequences that it is as yet impossible to estimate its effect. "But," he adds, "it is such that it might ultimately discourage those who still believe in Spain's destinies as a colonizing nation. Yet, its effect may be to brace the nation to make necessary retrenchment and economic sacrifices at home in order to continue the campaign, which must be both long and costly."

He reports that the Spanish forces are hemmed in around Melilla and that the Beni Scur tribe on the neck of the peninsula of Tres Forcas north of Melilla, is showing restlessness. Should this tribe revolt, he declares, Melilla would be surrounded except from the sea. For the moment, according to the correspondent, an active campaign is impossible. He says the troops are not ready and that consideration of what might happen to the six thousand prisoners held by the tribe, among whom are men, women and children from mines and farms, must be the "supreme consideration."

In the opinion of the correspondent, it seems probable that for some time the Spanish forces will not move far afield, while the money passes out and the ransomed come back.

Chinese Army

The Merry Ha-Ha The so-called Chinese army, in reality, is fifteen or twenty armies, each one independent of the others and all independent of Peking.

These armies vary in size from 30,000 men to several times that. General Chang Tso-lin, Tuchun in Moukden, alone commands an army larger than that of the United States. It is said to be the best paid outfit in China and for that reason would, it is believed, follow Chang without question.

General Tso Kua, Tuchun of Chihli province—where Peking is located—has a following just about as large. These Tuchuns are rivals, but for the time being, have pooled their interests.

Peking has repeatedly ordered a general cut in the army, but the only discernable result has been something which sounded very much like a Tuchunish chuckle, a few mutinies, considerable looting, the sucking of some cities and—apparently—additional enlistments.

Some Become Bandits

Now and then some overlord gets caught between a fundless devil and a deep blue sea of an oversized, undisciplined and mutinous soldier. At such times he suggests demobilization and one of two things happens:

Either his troops become peered and go on a looting rampage, else demand a bonus and the right to retain their arms. Of the two the latter becomes the irreducible minimum, without which they refuse to be fired. The bonus they can dispense with—it will be small anyway—but with arms they can get themselves up in the bandit business and do very well. Occasionally, too, a company or battalion decides en masse to quit "collecting" for their overlord and desert on mass in favor of the bush. Thereafter a new band of Robin Hoods make the neighborhood lively with its pillaging, kidnapping, burning torturing, and murdering for spoil.

Are They to Blame?

All this sounds very primitive and cold-blooded, and is. But, most unprejudiced observers agree, the blame must not be laid entirely on the rank and file. They, rather than the overlord, should be the victims of an age-long system.

Through no fault of their own, their ignorance is abysmal. For centuries they have been treated like dogs, by Huns and Mongolians. Tartars and Manchus, and shovelled down the human scale so far they are now only a fraction of a degree above the apes.

As parents bound the feet of their girl-babies and stop the growth of the feet, so the system in China bound the heads of the coolie class, stopped growth of the brain, and warped the mind.

Today there are millions in China who secretly know right from wrong—if that much. The only law they know is the law of self-preservation.

Road Builders

The great powers have contributed to this state of affairs. By helping China to rid herself of the incubus of her overlordship and army, they will rid her—and incidentally, themselves—of a grave peril.

China's useless troops should be put to road-building. Her greatest needs—unity and education—can never make much progress until her communities, isolated for thousands of years, can communicate and exchange ideas. Dirt roads and railroads, by the tens of thousands of miles, are imperative.

Progressive Chinese everywhere tell me this is essential to China's reconstruction.

Chinese and foreign capital should go into this public work, and there should be foreign supervision, under a central administration to the total disregard of the Tchuinate.

Where Danger Lies

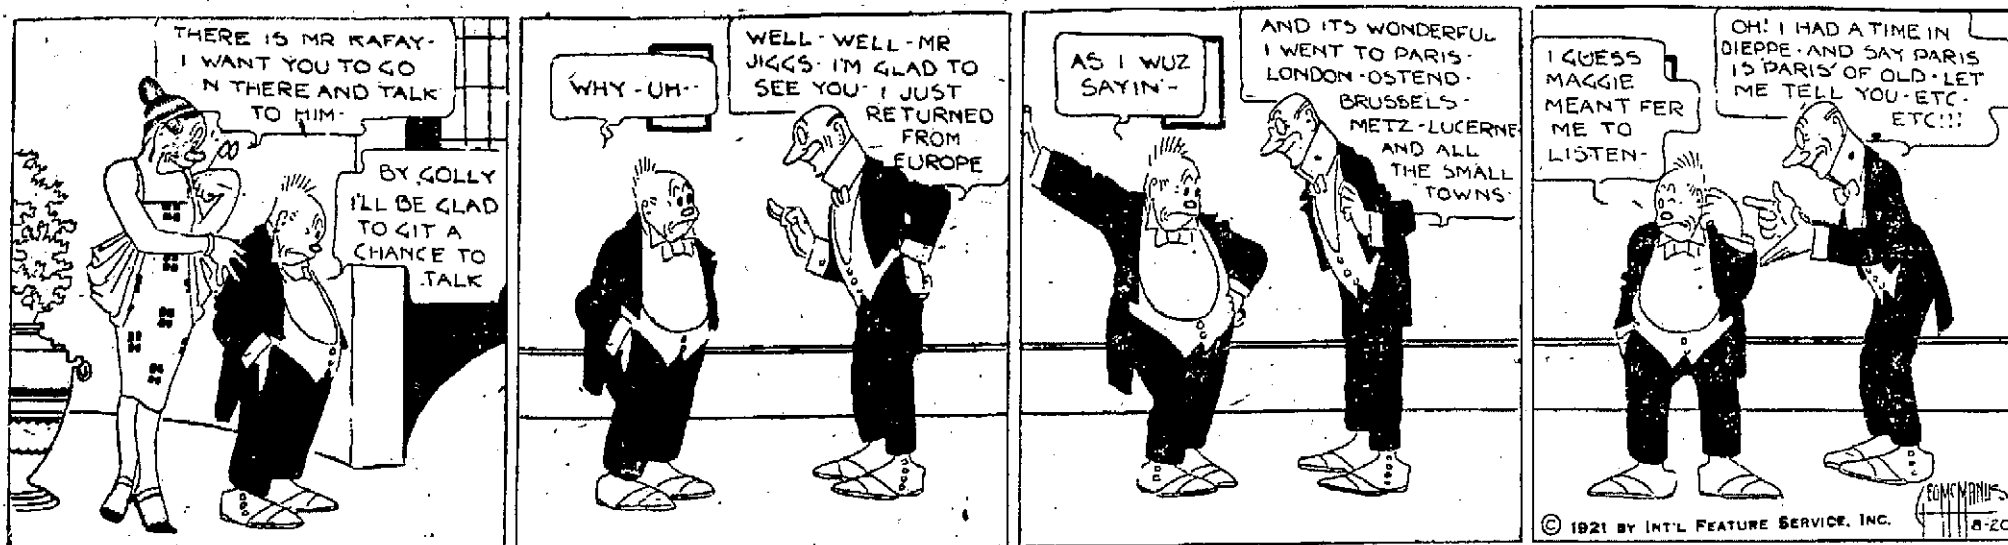

The troops themselves will not object. China's legions are not loyal to any particular Tchuin. All they demand is their food and pay.

This is but one of the jobs the Pacific Conference must undertake if it really gets at basic troubles in China, and that the sooner it is done the better it will be for all hands is recognized by all who have made a study of the situation.

Public opinion in China would not object to intervention of this kind if properly handled. But it must be properly handled. The danger is that it will not be.

For any nation which, for motives of its own desire to put a crimp in the Washington conference's proceedings and nullify its attempt to clear up the Far Eastern situation, has but to convince China that the powers are undermining her national integrity, and the thing will be done.

BRINGING UP FATHER

BY GEORGE McMANUS

RARDEN MEN PREVENT BAD WRECK

Lloyd Hoop and William Carter, Rarden timber men, were the heroes of the flood which visited the Youngs vicinity, near Rarden, Wednesday when after discovering a pile of logs and timbers on the N. & W. railroad tracks, which had been washed there by the rushing water, they succeeded in flagging a fast passenger train, which they heard coming in the distance. The train was only halted a few feet away from the obstruction and the men by their prompt action probably prevented a bad wreck. The men discovered the obstruction on the tracks as they were enroute home from the timber woods and they assisted the train crew to clear away the debris which allowed the train to proceed.

NEW DOKIE TEMPLE IS INSTALLED

Sixteen members of Meenatun Temple No. 217 D. O. K. K. this city played an important part in the installation of El Kassab Temple, No. 238, D. O. K. K. at Huntington last night and early this morning the local Dokies assisting the Charleston Dokies in the work of conferring the first degree work on 113 candidates that form the new Temple. Charleston sent the largest number of visitors all from Shiraz Temple. The Temple was represented by its crack band of 35 pieces and bands. Nearly 600 visiting Dokies were in attendance.

Imperial Secretary Al Fry and Imperial Prince Gus Messer of Spokane, Wash., who were to conduct the ceremony were not on hand at the start of the program and as the day wore on it was thought that they had met with an accident between Columbus and Huntington as they were to make the trip by motor. The two officers were held up on a detour near Waverly, a big truck was stuck in the mud and they could not pass in their machine. They arrived in Huntington about 11 o'clock. The ceremony did not come to a close until two o'clock the degree work being cut short to allow the Charleston visitors to catch a train. A parade and banquet were also on the afternoon and evening's program. Portsmouth Dokies present included Henry Roth, A. C. Hunker, Edward Knost, Carl Brant, Harry Eichorn, Joe Bihlman, Steve Sleson, R. L. Cook and Edward Bruchner. Ross Elliott and E. B. Cartwright of Weston members of the local Temple and five Dokies from Ironton members of the local Temple were others in attendance.

Church Confirms Dr. Jackson

The Western Christian Advocate, of Cincinnati, (Methodist) circulates in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and other states. It endeavors to reflect modern thought in all of its religious phases. An editorial in last week's issue so fully sustains the positions which the writer of these articles has been trying to give the public that he feels that readers of the Portsmouth Times should have the benefit of it. We give it word for word. "I believe the Bible from cover to cover, every word and syllable of it; it is a statement made by well meaning persons who seldom realize what they are saying. Some of them have never read the Bible clear through, so how do they know whether they believe it all or not? But it must be said of the more scholarly and thoughtful student making this declaration, that such a literalist differs from the more 'liberal' interpreter only in degree, and not in kind. Both use their Godly judgment when reading the Bible.

Foot-washing is commended as distinctly in the New Testament as the keeping of the Lord's Supper. Whole sects practice foot-washing, and rightly so. If every word of the Bible is to be taken literally, giving a holy kiss is commended and recommended for church members, over and over again, and certain sects practice it today. Why do not some of the men called 'Fundamentalists' take up this? Women are told to keep silent in the churches, yet almost every denomination allows them to teach, preach, pray, and even speak! If the Bible is to be taken absolutely literally word for word, command for command, this must not be overlooked. Jesus said, 'Take no thought for the morrow.' How are we to excuse ourselves for our storage warehouses, savings banks, and insurance? These illustrations of absurdity could be multiplied at length. The literalists have a way of explaining every one of these passages, and the explanation is based on the fact that every one must use his common sense and Christian judgment. As a matter of fact, the literalist abandons his literalism at many points, when he is hard pressed. Thus Biblical interpretation must finally rest back upon the Christian conscience and Christian intelligence.

Pageant At First Christian

At First Christian church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock the three Christian Endeavor societies will have charge of the program and will present a very interesting pageant portraying the power of the gospel as preached by the lives of those who profess it. While the program is being directed by the Local Society both Intermediate and Juniors have part in it and will make it very interesting, and of course they are expecting all their friends to come and enjoy the program with them.

It has been a custom in recent years during the pastor's vacation that the various organizations of the church care of the program for one Sunday during his absence. This has created a spirit of friendly rivalry between the various organizations as to which can present the best program and draw the largest audience. The result has been some splendidly planned programs during the summer. ETAGIN.

An Invitation To The Public

The present contract for supplying natural gas was made in 1905 and expires in February, 1930. It is provided in this contract that the price of natural gas shall not exceed 40 cents per thousand. Manifestly it was within the contemplation of the parties that gas would cost this amount before the expiration of the contract.

From 1908 until 1917 natural gas was supplied to the citizens of Portsmouth at 25 cents per thousand. In 1917 this rate was increased to 30 cents. The present rate is 40 cents per thousand. Natural gas has become a necessity in thousands of homes. We believe that the people wish to be assured of a continuance of the present service and that they are willing to pay a fair price for it. We do not believe that the people desire to junk their present gas grates, gas stoves, gas

THRESHER PLUNGES THROUGH BRIDGE, TWO MEN JUMP; ARE NOT INJURED

When a wheat thresher plunged through a small trail bridge known as Gault's bridge at Ohio Farmhouse, Scioto county at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Charles Austin, a well known farmer of Lawrence county and Asa Reagon of Haverhill had a close call from being seriously injured. They leaped from the thresher as it was going down and escaped injury. The machine was too heavy for the wooden structure and it had hardly reached the approach of it until the machine plunged through it into the creek below. For a while it was feared that the boiler might explode and this kept spectators a safe distance away. The thresher was badly damaged, but it is believed repairs can be made to it and place it in good running order.

The men say that the accident could have been avoided if a big girder, which they claim was never put in place, had been on the bridge. They claim that the girder was supposed to have been on the bridge and say that they will hold the county responsible for the accident.

HANNAN ENTERS MAYORALTY RACE

IRONTON, Aug. 20.—There is every indication for a full field of entries in the Mayoralty handiicap next November. Ex-Mayor A. J. Hannan Friday began the preliminary steps toward entrance by circulating a petition for himself for mayor on the Independent ticket and will probably be posted in the next few days. It is understood that the ex-mayor already has received signatures in excess of the amount required by law. This brings the number of contestants for Mayoralty honors up to four. Elkins on the Democratic ticket, Stewart on the Republican ticket with Hannan and Ahlson on the Independent ticket.

Candidates File Their Expense Accounts

Virtually all the candidates that participated in the recent primaries filed their expense accounts with the Board of Elections, as required by Friday midnight.

The money paid out by the candidates was limited to the Republican side according to the sworn statements, as Mayor William N. Gableman and his colleagues on the Democratic ticket, were unopposed and were nominated without the outlay of a cent.

George E. Matthews says that it cost him $61.25 in his successful race for the mayoralty nomination over his two opponents, Judge J. P. Purdum, who distributed $396.13 while Theodore Doby, who did not spend anything but his time in his unsuccessful fight although the Doby Republican Club spent the sum of $143.73 in boosting his candidacy and collected $109.50 in contributions, leaving a balance of $55.67, says a statement filed by Fred N. Tynes, treasurer. It cost William R. Sprague the sum of $410.50 to win the nomination for municipal judge over Attorney Alex C. Woodrow whose purse was hit for $72.00 in making his losing fight while Attorney Walter L. Dickey shed at $179.09 only to get ticked by Attorney Sheppard M. Johnson in the race for the honor of running for S. A. Skelton's job as city solicitor. It cost Johnson $94.00 to win the prize. To win a third nomination for city treasurer it cost A. J. Fuller the modest sum of $41.00 while it cost J. J. Davidson the sum of $27.50 to be defeated. Although unopposed J. Earl Chandler expended $20 to be renominated as city auditor.

At New Boston Marion Poole was the winner for the Republican mayoralty nomination and it came to him at a cost of $8.75 while his two unsuccessful opponents, Lawrence Fitch and J. L. Riekey paid out $19.00 and $5.00 respectively, to be defeated. John Newberry who was chosen by the Democrats for mayor spent nothing and his unsuccessful opponent, J. Harris did not disturb his purse strings.

Without exception the funds disbursed by the candidates went for advertising and distributing literature during the campaign.

BILIOUS CHILDREN

Black-Draught, Long in Successful Use, Praised by an Arkansas Mother, "Soon Does Its Work."

Marmaduke, Ark.—Speaking of Theodor's Black-Draught, which from long use in her household has become regarded as "the family medicine," Mrs. Mary E. Hill, of Route 1, this place, says: "When the children get bilious, I give them a couple of good doses, and when we have sour stomach, headache, or any liver or stomach trouble, we use Black-Draught. It is an easy laxative, and soon does the work. I certainly think it is one of the best remedies made." Black-Draught acts on the liver, gently, but positively, and helps it in its important function of throwing out waste materials and poisons from the system. In thousands of households Black-Draught is kept handy for immediate use in time of need. Prompt treatment often is half the battle, and will often prevent slight ills from developing into serious troubles. Its well-established merit, during more than 70 years of successful use, should convince you of the helpful effects obtainable by taking Black-Draught for liver and stomach disorders. Get a package today, and keep it in your house. See that the package bears the words, "Theodor's Black-Draught." NG-141

Marting Plant To Resume

IRONTON, Aug. 20.—One of the best bits of news to filter through the prevailing gloom of local industrial depression was the announcement today by the Marting Iron and Steel Company of its plans to start Iron furnace on September 15th. Prospects now are for a run of four months, by the expiration of which time, it is believed, conditions will be such as to warrant continuation of operations. Little by little there seems to be a firmer tone to the demand for iron and manufacturers the country over are beginning to get ready for renewed activities.

Here's One Question That Dad Can Answer Without Ma's Help

Here's a question for your father, youngster a query about circuses. Ask him what circus was middle-aged before any other now travelling here come to life. Ask him what circus has blazed the way for others year in and year out for little short of a century, getting just a little bigger, just a little better, just a little more magnificent each season, and he will tell you John Robinson's, the pioneer of all tented shows.

Ninety-eight years ago, to be exact, John Robinson, the first, conceived the idea of a traveling show for the amusement of the people, something which would arouse enough interest to keep them talking and wishing for a return of the show each year. From the very start the organization determined to meet the approval of a particular public, and never has this determination been diverged from. When the first John Robinson Circus rattled its way, on wagons, across the rough country roads, it carried the best circus talent obtainable.

The world contains no better performers than those secured by the Robinson management for this season, and big things are promised citizens of Portsmouth when this famous circus visits here on Monday, August 22. Two performances will be given, at 2 and 8 p. m., preceded by the regular street parade.

All Due to the Women. In a lecture before the Royal Institute, Prof. Arthur Keith, an eminent biologist, gave the credit for American success to the women who came over with the Pilgrim fathers. The fact that these Englishmen brought their wives with them is responsible for the remarkably sturdy condition of the American people; whereas the Spaniards who went into Central and South America left their wives behind, and the result is a hybrid race which is not the equal of the original Iberian.

Testing Atmospheric Pollution. Automatic records, of atmospheric pollution are kept in England by means of an air filter which at the end of every fifteen minutes draws a known volume of air through a piece of fine blotting paper. The darkness of the circle of deposit left on the paper indicates the amount of suspended matter in the air.

"Home Stuff."

No picture in a long while has had the fortune to win such praise and enthusiasm as was accorded to "Home Stuff" the Metro special which was shown yesterday at the Eastland The-

Viola Dana stars in this picture. Her acting has a wonder-compelling charm.
"Home Stuff" is the story of Madge
Joy, a leading woman of a traveling show, who abandons stage life to take up a quiet existence with a family of farmers. Madge never mentions her past life to the austere couple, to whom the stage is a sink of iniquity. Then in comes her old associates, plus a young girl who had run away from the very house Madge has been adopted into.
The situation is worked out interestingly and convincingly.

The Treasure Upstairs

Up in the attic or store room in almost every home there is a treasure that has accumulated with time. It is a treasure that needs little effort to uncover it. It can be turned to your cash account by the use of.

Tested Want Ads

"When we bought the new living room suite," says a want ad user, "we packed the old parlor furniture away in the attic.

"Most of it was in good condition. A few pieces might have been retouched. All had many years of service ahead.

"But there it stood gathering dust until one day the boy of the house wanted some vacation money.

"Would we let him sell the old furniture? Well, most assuredly. But to whom? Nobody we knew wanted any of it.

"He had a plan of his own—he ran a want ad. And every single piece of that furniture was bought up by people who were anxious to get it."

You can duplicate this story. And do it much easier because you have at your call a Tested Want Ad service.

There are many things about the house that you have no more use for. Yet someone else is anxious to get them.

It's to your profit to find that someone. A Tested Want Ad will do it.

RACKET WIELDERS ARE ACTIVE

CHICAGO, ILL., Aug. 20.—Babe Ruth, the Yankee slugger who registered his 45th home run of the season in the first game of the farewell series between New York and the White Sox in Chicago, has batted himself to third place among the hitters of the American League with an average of .404. His 172 hits have given him a total of 274 bases, which include 28 doubles, 13 triples and 10 homers.

George Kelly, the slugging Giant batter, having counted 45 times, while Hornsby scored 92 runs. The St. Louis favorite, however, increased his lead in total bases among the National leaguers, and continues to drop the hitters with an average of .404. His 172 hits have given him a total of 274 bases, which include 28 doubles, 13 triples and 10 homers.

The big southpaw also increased his lead as a run getter, having registered 126 times, and boosted his total base mark to 320. Beside his circuit drive record, Ruth has cracked out 28 doubles and eight triples.

Harry Heilmann, the Detroit outfielder, suffered a slight slump in hitting but continues to top the list of players who have participated in 60 or more games, with a mark of .407. Ty Cobb is the runner-up with .381.

S. Harris of Washington added a brace of stolen bases to his string and is showing the way to the base stealers with 22 thefts.

Real Stars Clash Today

FOREST HILL, N. Y., August 20.—Thrilling tennis was in store for fans who journeyed out to see the national final clash between Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, of New York, and Miss Mary K. Browne, of Santa Monica, Cal.

Both players were in top form for the match. Mrs. Mallory, the present title holder, has, according to the experts, exhibited the finest tennis of her career in the preliminary rounds, while Miss Browne, national champion in 1912, 1913 and 1914, seemed to have all the wizardry she displayed in her championship days.

The experts credit Miss Browne with being the peerless tactician among women tennis players. They are generally agreed that Mrs. Mallory is the personality of strength and endurance. So today's match, in addition to being East vs. West, promised to resolve itself into a test of the relative merits of strength and science.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Pittsburgh divided a double bill with Philadelphia Friday. The visitors won the first, 14 to 8, and lost the second, 4 to 1. In the opening contest, the Pirates hammered Meadows and Betts for twenty hits, including two home runs by Robertson, the first of which came in the 6th with three men on base. Hubbell held Pittsburgh to seven scattered hits in the closing game.

THE PARTING OF THE WAYS

THE most sensational news of the day to Ohioans, from Washington is that the administration has come to a rupture with Senator Willis directly and with the anti-saloon league incidentally.

It is the same old reef upon which many a brilliant career and more than one administration has gone to wreck, the distribution of the spoils, a quarrel as to who shall have the offices.

Washington states that Willis opened hostilities by opposing confirmation of a revenue collector that had been personally designated by Harding, but the trouble is deeper seated than that, the virulent rivalry between the Willis and Daugherty following.

The origin, however, matters not the consequent thing is the row is on. If it goes to a finish the name of Willis and the anti-saloon league will be Carpenter. Ohioans, senators and congressmen have never been accused of not knowing on which side their bread is buttered.

The little unpleasantness brings out distinctly what this experienced diagnostician has always maintained and for which it has often been chided for asserting, the fact that the anti-saloon league is the aid and ally of the Republican party, for when people get mad they will talk and blurt out the truth that they will never admit at any other time. So we have profuse stories on the one hand of what was promised the anti-saloon league, and of that same anti-saloon league wanting to "hog" everything on the other.

This is a case, however, where facts do not concern Democrats. They will not be for the under dog in the fight, but their plaudits will all be reserved for the President. When prohibition was first enacted the anti-saloon league nosed into the enforcement problem officiously and offensively and any jolt handed it will not be regarded as amiss.

AND WORSE YET TO COME

IT is comforting that house Democrats have shaken themselves out of their lethargy and resolved to oppose with all the might in their new taxation bill.

So while the partisans rag and roar it will be well for the people themselves to consider this measure. If they do, with even a mite of intelligence and fairness to themselves and all they will see clearly enough that it is responsive neither to their wish nor to their desire.

In pretence it is designed as redemption of the pledge of the party and the administration to reduce the burden of taxation upon the masses. It does no such thing; it rather adds to them by the process of shifting from the class to the mass. For the measure is no more than an amendment of the present taxation statute and, in the main, such changes as are suggested, can have no other ultimate effect than to make the many pay more and the few less. That appears in the reduction of the income percentage of a comparatively small number of those who have over $66,000 annual income, their percentage being cut to fifty percent, while the income, their percentage being over $2,500 are shaved for only 25 percent, and that only provided they are married. The excess profits tax is wiped out entirely and there again the masses are little again, because to supply the chasm thus made innumerable little corporations have their tribute to Caesar increased fifty percent.

Oh, yes; small gaudy impostes like those on ice cream and jewelry and some luxuries are to be eliminated, but in their stead others quite as obnoxious are to be imposed.

Remember too the worst is yet to come. The house proposes, the senate disposes. The measure in the house, hateful as it is is not so bad as the leaders and administration proposed, because a new element got obstreperous, insubordinate and in party caucus made vital changes in the bill, that considerably cured the "rawness" in its tentative form, but when the house passes it, it will go to the senate and there the senate will amend it, just as the administration ordered, and when finally passed it will have seven new devils of iniquity in it where it originally had one.

THAT'S THE TALK

The automobile manufacturers have protested against the new tariff bill, which levies a stiff import duty on cars.

They say they don't need any protection. They can and do make cheaper and better cars, cars that will run faster and go farther than those made anywhere else on earth.

Sounds like real American talk.

We'll think more kindly of the automobile hereafter. Every time we ride in one we'll feel like one of the people, afraid of none better than all.

In some things somewhere they are better, in other things and elsewhere they are worse. Bellaire has six cent milk. Huntington has a $3.06 tax rate, as against Portsmouth 13 cent and $2.03 respectively.

It takes a booze robbery to take the Cincinnati police to boot-hoofing it at their best.

It is singular that just as Bryan announces his renunciation as a citizen of Nebraska that state begins to suffer from a surfeit of moisture.

The whole world is a-wish that Ireland recognize that nine-tenths of a loaf is a whole lot better than starvation.

Telling Age of Mistletoe.

It is a comparatively easy matter to learn the age of growing mistletoe, as each shoot sends off two new shoots each year, and by counting the joints from the root to the tip of any branch the number of years the mistletoe has lived may be computed easily.

Stones Swallowed by Elephants.

The habit of swallowing stones appears to be more or less common among elephants. The British museum contains a collection of 168 stones, averaging the size of a hen's egg, all taken from the stomach of one African elephant.

Lee Mansion As A Memorial

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 20.—Is Arlington Mansion, bare and gloomy since Lee rode away, again to be turned into the semblance of a beautiful colonial home, with its relics of Washington, Custis and Lee restored?

Arlington was stripped of its souvenirs of George Washington, its works of art, and its furniture in the exciting Civil War days. Priceless relics, left unguarded, were somehow stolen by vandal camp followers. Soldiers quartered about the grounds had opportunity to buy for a song, or even to take without price, souvenirs to send back home. What was left of the Washington things was finally carried to a museum in the Patent Office, whence the exhibits later found their way into the National Museum and to Mount Vernon.

General Meigs, once Robert E. Lee's intimate friend, was so embittered by Lee's negligence to his state that he vowed that never again should the mansion be used as the Lee home-stead. To insure this, he ordered graves dug on the grounds for the Union dead, and Arlington became a national cemetery, with the mansion deserted, save for certain rooms set aside for the use of the superintendent of the cemetery.

Meigs' vow will always hold. The mansion can never again be the real colonial home left by Lee's family. Thousands of slaves dot the lawns of the Arlington estate, even close to the homestead. But Arlington Mansion can be made into a museum, like Mount Vernon, of great historic value and sentimental interest. The idea of attempting this has been proposed by a Virginia chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the plan is to be discussed at the annual convention of the organization in October. If the project is approved there, it must then be submitted to the government.

If the Daughters of the Confederacy agree in the desire to restore Arlington House and take care of a collection there, there is no reason to think that congress would refuse consent. Arlington is closely associated not alone with Lee, the southern hero, but with many famous earlier characters, such as Lafayette and George Washington Parke Custis, Washington's adopted son.

Built By Custis

This Custis was the builder of Arlington House. In 1802, soon after Mrs. Washington's death, he left Mount Vernon and superintended the building of a house for himself on 1,100 acres of ground belonging to him at Arlington, Virginia. The residence he planned was similar to a Greek temple, with eight of the huge pillars so admired by the Colonials, used to form a portico.

Custis ordered the house set on the brow of a hill so that it would overlook the Capital. The portico at Arlington offers what is perhaps the most beautiful outlook on the city of Washington. Lafayette, visiting Mr. Custis at Arlington, declared it one of the most beautiful views he had ever looked upon. And another visitor of seventy years ago wrote:

"From the portico a brilliant panorama is presented. The Capitol, Executive Mansion, Smithsonian Institute, the growing magnificent Washington Monument, and almost every house in the federal city may be seen at a glance from this point, while between them and Arlington flows the bright flood of the Potomac."

In his new home, George Washington Parke Custis dispensed the same lavish hospitality that had been the rule at Mount Vernon. His house was furnished with taste and elegance. Many relics and furnishings of Mount Vernon were left to him and transferred to Arlington, and these were cherished by Custis and his guests as things which the first president had used.

The war tent which Washington carried throughout the Revolution was so greatly treasured that when Custis wished solemnly to honor any hero he had the war tent pitched on the lawn and received them in it. This tent is now in a glass case in the National Museum. The brown cloth is faded in several places, and the poles lie on top.

Another Arlington souvenir of equal historic value was Washington's bed. The same writer who so vividly described the view from the portico has this to say:

"In one of the chambers at Arlington House is the bed and bedstead upon which Washington slept at Mount Vernon, and where he expired. The frame is remarkable for its great width, being six feet. It was made with other furniture in New York in 1781, and was in continual use by the hero until the day of his death. The bed and bedding remain in precisely the same condition as when the good man left it for his final resting place."

This bed is now at Mount Vernon.

Other Washington Relics

Custis had many other belongings of the Washington family—such things as the harpsicord which the general had given to Nellie Custis at Mount Vernon; a heavy little iron chest with three padlocks and two bolts in which Mrs. Washington kept money and valuables; a silver tea service from which the first president was said to have served all the great men of the day; beautiful vases, the gifts of admirers; and valuable old portraits of Washington and his family.

Among these portraits Custis owned the Sturges profile painting of Washington, regarded by many people as the best likeness ever executed of the general. But Custis was not altogether satisfied with the various likenesses of his adopted father and had the ambition to paint a full length view of the great man that would settle for posterity all questions as to his face and figure. He did indeed make the painting, showing the general leaning against his horse at Yorktown.

Custis' intentions were good, but his lack of training prevented his attempting at historic paintings from having the value he felt sure they would have. The amateur painter was not deterred by technical difficulties, however, but proceeded to turn out half a dozen Revolutionary battle scenes with Washington prominent in the foreground, and then to decorate the walls of the house with murals. Traces of one of these wall paintings, a hunting scene, may still be seen in the rear hall of Arlington House.

The heirlooms of Arlington passed on to the Lees when Custis died in 1857. Robert E. Lee had married Custis' daughter and at Custis' wish the young couple set up housekeeping at Arlington rather than at Lee's own home. Whatever souvenirs of Lee's stay at Arlington are still in existence, therefore, are largely personal belongings.

If the Daughters of the Confederacy do undertake to establish a museum at Arlington, members of the Lee and Custis families and others who have relics from Arlington House would be the only source from which exhibits can be obtained. A number of the Washington exhibits in the National Museum are labeled, "Lent by Miss Mary Custis Lee." They are not, therefore, the permanent property of the museum.

Although Arlington is across the Potomac from Washington, it is as much visited as the sights in the heart of the city. The graves and monuments of both northern and southern forces of the Civil War, those of the Spanish War, and now the graves of the European War dead, attract many. The mansion has always been one of the sights of the grounds, and visitors fill huge registers with their names. Except for the table on which the register stands, the rooms which are open to visitors, are bare.

Arlington is far from forgotten, but it is remembered as a desolate, echoing house. It is difficult to believe that Custis built a diningroom and dancing pavilion on the lawn by his spring and invited people to come and enjoy the wooded grounds of the Arlington estate. It is hard to imagine the clean swept halls of Arlington filled out with old mahogany and silver, imported china, chintz, and brocades. Yet this is Arlington House as it was—and as it may be restored.

Respect For Law

Respect for law begins in childhood in the home. If that government fails, all government fails for the infantile whose parents are derelict in the most important lesson which home life can teach—obedience. The wild boy, the unruly girl, are the natural output of a home in which there is no government.

No government can be effective without just penalties for disobedience and wrong-doing. The failure to apply this principle in the home breeds contempt for all authority, human and divine. If the laws of the home are not enforced, the laws of the state will be broken by the disobedient son and daughter.

Authority is necessary everywhere. Without it the world would be wild. Respect for it must be taught at home. Otherwise the lives of children are terribly marred long before the temptations and passions of maturity begin their assaults on character.

Ingersoll Extends

At the recent memorial celebration in honor of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll an example of his unstudied, impromptu eloquence was read. The remarks were made at a meeting of the Lotus Club after he had declined to talk and reluctantly rose to his feet at a dinner in 1909. Colonel Ingersoll said:

"We are all pupils of nature: we are taught by the countless things that touch us on every side, by field and flower and star and cloud and river and sea, where the waves break into whitecaps, and hydrae, and by the mountain that lifts its granite forehead to the sun—all things in nature touch us, sharpen us, cause the heart to beat, to burst, it may be, into blossom to produce fruit."

No man believes more in the nobility and splendor of humanity than I do: no man feels more grateful than I to the self-denying and heroic, splendid souls who have made this world fit for men and women to live in. But I believe that the human mind has reached its top in three departments. I don't believe the human race, no matter if it lives millions of years more upon this wheeling world, will ever produce anything greater, sublimer than the marble of the Greeks. I believe they reached absolutely the perfection of form and the expression of force and passion in stone. The Greeks made marble as sensitive as flesh and as passionate as blood.

I don't believe that any human being of any coming race, no matter how many suns may rise and set, or how many languages be born and decay, will ever excel the dramas of Shakespeare. Nor do I believe that the time will ever come when any man with such instruments of music as we now have, and having nothing but the common air that we now breathe, will ever produce greater pictures in sound, greater music than Wagner. Never! Never!"

A mere trifle in Washington's eyes, but Mr. Dawes has saved $50,000 a year by cutting out rubber tipped pencils and letting clerks use other erasers provided.

Congress is on trial, remarks the New York Times. Nothing new. It's always on trial, with the press of the minority party always acting as prosecuting attorney. Opposition is necessary for a well balanced government of the people.

"The girl of the street wastes her golden hours chasing illusions," says a writer in the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "She needs to be stripped of her vanity rags, washed clean, dressed modestly. Then there might be hope of a tolerable marriage."

Yes. But who is to strip her when her natural protectors are ignorant or careless of their duty to her?

The best comment on the marriage of President Harding's venerable father comes from the Wall Street Journal: "In Marion, O., the spirit of '76 is not dead."

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A midnight performance by all colored players has suddenly blossomed as the nocturnal rendezvous for "Who's Who" after Broadway. The play "Shuffle Along" is presented in an old theatre on West Sixty Third street. It was written by Noble Sissle and Aubrey Lyles, who have long been "on call" to play and sing at private parties.

It is teeming with humming melodies and "Love Will Find a Way" promises to become as popular as "Kiss Me Again" and other old standbys. Real talent is exhibited among the dusty ladies of the ensemble and one in particular sings a "Daddy" song that outshines the bluest melody ever heard in New York.

An ebony lured Theda Bara with—strange are the uses of beauty—red bobbed hair crowns "If You Haven't Been Vamped by a Brown Skin You Haven't Been Vamped at All" and the night is there she got it. A certain number of colored people in evening clothes occupied one box and across from them was a box filled with white people whose names are quite well known in the Lobster Belt.

In the foyer between acts there is a promenade for all the world like the old days when Diamond Jim revealed two points of pearls and Lillian Kohlmeyer, among these I saw were heart white, the Duncan Sisters, just back from London, Jessie Reed, Andy Maple, Irving Berlin, Wallis McCutcheon, Ned Wigham, Dorothy Gish, and Emily Drange.

The theatre is hot and stuffy and the scenery is most mediocre but the idea is something new and Broadway always looking for something different, partially satisfied its insatiable thirst. Every pounder at private banquets also make their bow in "Shuffle Along." They are known as "Onion" Jeffrey and "Sneeze"—the latter was once hired at midnight to accompany a gay party to Paris the next day and when he got over there he made such a hit that Broadway didn't see him for two years.

nervously. "Our little boy. He seeks. You play. He mooned better. I bring you deep with his thanks. My wife, make him"—and he presented a bottle of Chianti.

A hulking, red faced detective went on a rampage in the Paddy's Market section of Ninth avenue the other afternoon and black-jacked 24 people—among them women and children. The Magistrate dismissed all and rebuked the detective who did not even appear in court. An old man, partially blind, was eating a plate of soup in a dirty restaurant where the bumpsteer started. His soup was jerked from him and hurled in his face. While the outrage was in progress the detective is said to have shouted: "There's too damn much personal liberty in this country."

The Hippodrome reduces its price to $1.50 for best seats for the coming season. Last year the same seats were $3.00. The $2 show is almost a certainty this winter. Only three productions on Broadway are doing a good business. The Lovie houses are all ready planning a big reduction. One that has been charging $1 is to drop to 25 cents for best seats.

Measuring Raindrops.

Raindrops are measured by permitting them to fall into a shallow tray containing dry flour or plaster of Paris. Each drop thus makes a cast of itself, which is carefully measured. The largest raindrops are about a quarter of an inch in diameter.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You will avoid wholesale introductions as much as possible and make your guest acquainted with a few folk at a time, as they arrive at your party.

In giving a theater party, the hostess gives to each masculine guest an envelope containing a ticket for the young woman he escorts and for himself. The host often keeps all of the tickets himself and attends to them.

And are sitting at the table you will step into it for others to pass into the row of seats in which you sit, instead of turning for them to brush past you.

Mrs. Nagg: "I have no sympathy for a man who gets intoxicated every night."

Nagg: "Any man who can do that, my dear, isn't looking for sympathy."

Unselfishness is one of the keys to personal charm, which means good manners. The woman who would be a successful woman, a woman of charm, must be an unselfish woman. She must repress natural instincts to be long-tempered when she is tired, to retort sharply when contradicted on her own particular subjects. She must listen when the woman to talk, and she must never for one moment be off her guard in the world.—Exchange.
